

The 4th 'R': Redefining Literacy ...

David Warlick presents a new vision for the classroom that is changing our definitions of teaching.

Our sense of the future has changed, our students are different and the very nature of information has changed.

Are your schools ready to address the rapidly changing information landscape?

What do children need to be learning today and how do they need to be learning it?

"As little as we know about the future for which we are preparing our children, it is clear that it will be a place that is governed by information. Accessing, processing, building with, and communicating that information will be a major part of our daily professional and personal work ... the concept of literacy in the 21st century will be far richer and more comprehensive than the 3 Rs of the one room school house ..."
